6 What is good governance? What are the perfect models of good governance for Bangladesh? Write nine "I"s theory in Bangladesh?

Answer:

Introduction:

Governance and good governance (GG) has become a grey concern in modern days especially in developing and least developed countries. Bangladesh being a developing country is facing this challenging issue more seriously after the 11/1 (one eleven) ever before.

Bangladesh needs good governance for improving the present condition. She needs to develop law and order, provide protection and advancement of human rights services, redistribute income and ensure the sustainable use of resources weak capacity, poverty and corruption have seen some of the evil factors in this regards and inflicting multiplying negative impacts in achieving the goal of GG.

Good Governance:

The terms governance and good governance are increasingly being used in developing literature. Governance describes the process of decision-making and the process by which decisions are implemented (or not implemented). Hereby, public institutions conduct public affairs, manage public resources, and guarantee the realization of human rights. Good governance accomplishes this in a manner essentially free of abuse and corruption, and with due regard for the rule of law. It encompasses a broad agenda that includes effective government policies and administration, respect of the rule of law, protection of human rights and as effective civil society. However, it is imperative to point out that it is not confined only to political and social issues but also include proper management of the economy as well as transparency and fair competition in business.

Perfect models of GG for Bangladesh:

Since GG is one of the most discussed issues in the world, social and political scientists have developed many ideas and models for it. One of the most perfect and ideal for Bangladesh is the following one. This model of good governance has 8 major characteristics. They are:

i) Accountability.

ii)Transparency.

iii) Responsiveness.
iv)Participatory election.
v) Consensus oriented.
vi)Effective and efficient bureaucrats.
vii) Equitable and inclusive ~~and~~ law and order
viii) Rule of law.

It assures minimized corruption, the views of minorities are taken into account and that the voices of the most vulnerable in society are heard in decision-making. It is also responsive to the present and future needs of society.

History:

In Bangladesh GG started in early for. The Concept of "Governance" is not new. It is as old as human civilization. Simply put Governance, means: the process of decision-making and the process by which divisions are implemented (or not implemented). Some of the principles of good governance date back to the time of ancient creek. Other principles developed in more recent years, or lessons learned from our or history and that of other democracy practicing societies.

Nine "I"s theory in Bangladesh:

Least developed continues (LDCs), the united nations development programme (UNDP) and the UN office of the high representative for the least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and the small island developing states (UN-DHRLLS) have compromised that to achieve sustainable development, LDC must build transparent, accountable and effective democratic governance system. Building a strong relationship between the state and its citizens is to successful development and to achieving the millennium development goods by 2015. In the absence of this Nine is good governance in Bangladesh like any other country will be for cry.

1) Independent and non partisan election commission.
2) Independent judiciary and the rule of law.
3) Independent media and freedom of speech.
4) Independent anti-corruption commission.
5) Investing in the people.
6) Independent and effective commission.
7) Independent human rights commission.
8) Independent ombudsman system and
9) Independent friendly government.